Bi-polar Ionization Installation Proposal

Prepared for:

Indian River County Emergency Operations Center 4 AHUs

Attn: Richard Szpyrka

November 11, 2020

Re: Bi-polar Ionization Installation

Trane is pleased to offer this proposal to provide and install Bi-Polar Ionization Devices in (4) Air Handling Units (AHUs) located at the above referenced sites. The devices will be installed in the supply ductwork on each AHU. This proposal reflects a “Turnkey Project” and includes the necessary: Equipment, Materials, Installation Labor, Subcontracts, Project Management and Supervision. Our pricing and proposal is further defined by the following installation, scope of work.

These devices are proven to help clean the air by combatting viruses, bacteria, VOCs, dust, smoke, and mold. Additionally, these devices are ASHRAE 62.1 approved which will allow for future energy savings by reduction of outside air ventilation.

What is Bi-polar Ionization?

Bi-polar ionization devices use electricity to create plasma fields which charges particles both positively and negatively (ions). These ions then react with the substances in the air in order to become stable again. As they react, they change the overall charge of the molecule they react with which creates a cleaning effect – the same way Earth’s atmosphere cleans itself.

Airborne particles are charged by the ions causing them to cluster and be caught in filters

Dust/ Smoke

As they divide to reproduce, bacteria and virus cells bond with oxygen ions and are destroyed

Virus/ Bacteria

Odorous gases and aerosols oxidize on contact with oxygen ions and are neutralized

Odors

Oxygen ions cause a chemical reaction with VOCs breaking down their molecular structure

VOCs

ASHRAE 62.1

ASHRAE is the governing body for the HVAC industry and standard 62.1 is used to set ventilation rates. The standards determine how much outside air is brought into a facility based upon building square footage, usage, and number of occupants - among other factors. If an ASHRAE approved device is implemented, the percentage of outside air can be significantly reduced which can significantly reduce your energy consumption. All devices included in this proposal are ASHRAE 62.1 approved.

Please note: it is not recommended to reduce your ventilation rates during times of indoor air quality concern. When the facility's concerns are alleviated the ventilation rates can be easily adjusted to the lower levels and energy savings achieved. The future adjustments to the ventilation system are not included in this proposal.
