Commissioner Solari discussed the average cost to Indian River County taxpayers for the removal of debris after Hurricane Irma, and mentioned that a total of 100,906 cubic yards of material was removed from the streets of Indian River County. He stated that many other counties had trouble obtaining vendors to remove their trash, and consequently paid much more for debris clean-up than Indian River County. He compared the averages that several other counties paid to have debris removed, and pointed out that local staff was trained, competent, and equipped to handle the issues, and did so in a responsible, financially prudent manner.

Chairman Flescher expressed his appreciation to staff, as well as the subcontractors who held up to their agreements, as it was tempting for them to obtain work in the other counties that paid more per cubic yard to have their material removed.
